ANMOKU

KODAMA REMIXES

A kodama (木霊 or 木魂) is a spirit living in a tree. During my stay in Japan in 2012 I once observed raindrops crashing down onto the ground of a shrine nearby a mighty forest. This being so inspiring made me develop the idea of creating a track about this impression. Do not mention that I tried to picture Princess Mononoke's small, white humanoids with large, rattling heads and mask-like features, similar to bobble heads or just owls sitting in trees. An amazing moment captured in this track.

After releasing «How to catch STILLE?» in 2013 (a remix album of STILLE and a charity project for people with hearing loss involving 30 different artists and musicians) the idea of releasing a one track remix album evolved. Kodama was this single basis track as a starting point. So I began gathering alternative versions of this track created by my great artist friends and here we are finally. ENJOY!

TON ATOM

tonAtom.131
tonatom.net

*Kodama (Mononocle, Etalabel, 2012)
etalabel.bandcamp.com/album/mononocle

Mastering: Weldroid
Foto: Dominik Grenzler

anmoku.bandcamp.com
anmoku.net

2014, AN MOKU